Most students have a firm grasp on the English language and could speak it fairly fluently, but they struggle when they do the reading module. The vocabulary that students encounter frequently at schools is not enough to help them understand reading material and test questions.• Reading Strategies: The ability to understand and use the information in a text is a key to a student's success in IELTS tests. Successful students have a repertoire of strategies to draw upon, and know how to use them in different contexts. Struggling students need explicit teaching of these strategies to become better readers.• Speaking Strategies: These strategies help students control anxiety and stage fright; so they speak with confidence and poise. I really believe that a good speaker is made and not born.• Listening skills: These skills help students to do a few things at the same time. They improve their ability to read the instructions and questions, listen for general information, listen for specific information, and write the answers as they listen.• Writing Skills: Writing skills are specific abilities which help students put their thoughts about a prompt into words in a meaningful form and to mentally interact with this prompt.
